

Photovoltaics project at Shijiahu Wins 2020 China Quality Power Project Award

On 12 June, China Power received exhilarating news from the China Electric Power Construction Association that it has won the 2020 China Quality Power Project Award for its 70MW photovoltaic power generation project at Shijiahu.

The CEPCA honoured the Shijiahu project with the award based on the “best of the best” principle, and following procedures from online applications and formal investigations to on-site sampling and meeting reviews in the four major categories of thermal power, hydropower, wind power, and power transmission and transformation.
