

Wuhu Electric Power Generating Company Organizes Summer Labor Competition

Wuhu Electric Power Generating Company, which operates under China Power, organized the Summer Labor Competition for 2019 on 11 June, with a view to ensuring stable operation of machine units during the summertime.

In order to ensure the safety, stability and operation of machine units during the summertime, the company decided to organize competition for employees based on actual production and adopted organization-, safety- and technology-related measures as well as "safe production" labor evaluation methods for promoting safe production.

The company will introduce resolute measures to improve leadership, understanding, system establishment and technological precaution, and will enhance the market awareness, sense of products and leadership, and fully motivate employees for the coming summer.
